Testimonials

“My time in Camrose was one of the most rewarding learning experiences I have had in my life. Though a steep learning curve faced us early on, the relationships developed with preceptors over the year allowed us great responsibility and trust. This added role forced us to have a more complete understanding of the subject matter necessary to treat patients. Further, seeing certain patients progress and regress over the year gave us a temporal understanding of disease process. It also gave us an emotional understanding of disease process. Much maturing came from the deterioration and death of patients who we developed meaningful relationships with over the course of the ICC experience”.
