

JANUARY 30, 2017

GLOBAL HEALTH FAIR

11:00 -12:30	Biomedical Global Health I - Infectious Disease Dr. Sedami Gnidehou (Faculté St. Jean): "Is the feminization of VAR2CSA, a vaccine candidate against pregnancy-associated malaria still relevant?" Dr. David Marchant (Department of Medical Microbiology and Immunology): "The Community and Cellular Transmission of Respiratory Syncytial Virus: That's RSV to you." Dr. Michael Joyce (Department of Medical Microbiology and Immunology): "Viral evasion of the host innate immune response: HCV and other positive strand RNA viruses hijack the Nuclear Pore Complex to form a barrier between the cytosol and the interior of the membranous web."
12:30 -13:30	Keynote Lecture: Dr. Kris Chadee (Department of Microbiology, Immunology and Infectious Diseases): "Pathogenesis of Entamoeba histolytica-induced colitis: A Global Health Problem in Developing Nations."
13:30 -14:00	REFRESHMENTS
14:00 -15:30	Biomedical Global Health II - Women and Children's Health Maira Quintanilha (Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutritional Science): "Back home and here: how international migration has changed the boundaries of global nutrition." Dr. Stephane Bourque (Department of Anesthesiology & Pain Medicine): "Iron deficiency in pregnancy: a deceptively complex global health issue." Dr. Jerome Yager (Department of Pediatrics): "Cerebral Palsy and Developmental Disability Paradoxically Increasing as a Global Health Burden: Approaches to Prevention."
15:30-16:30	Global Health and Society Dr. Gavin Renwick (Department of Art & Design): "Circumpolar health through a design lens." Dr. Jill Konkin (Division of Community Engagement): "First do no harm: global health and North American Medical Schools."
16:30-18:00	Poster Session and Med Student Elective showcase
18:00	Concluding remarks and poster prizes awards

KEYNOTE TALK:

Pathogenesis of Entamoeba histolytica-induced colitis: A Global Health Problem in Developing Nations

Kris Chadee, PhD, Professor

Department of Microbiology, Immunology
and Infectious Diseases | University of Calgary

UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA

Location: 2-420 ECHA

Edmonton Clinic Health Academy

REGISTER HERE: <https://www.eventbrite.ca/e/fomd-global-health-fair-2017-tickets-30552295739>

